I have found the code works well on a range of devices. However, I have had to make some minor changes to the media query CSS code is to make sure the images and fonts scale correctly depending on screen size.

I am currently resolving the issues mainly for iPad and tablets. The responsive queries for smartphones seem to work well at this point. I should be able to resolve responsive issues for mid-sized screens with additional code in the media query for max-width 800px.
