Content Discussion

Content is resolved for mobile responsiveness via media queries in CSS. The initial build seems to work well with being responsive. No problems or additional coding seems to be required.

However, I have noticed that content on iPhone and smaller footprint devices that the header fonts can overlap. I have been working on additional code my media queries to resolve these issues.

.text-left h1, .text-right h1 {
  font-size: 5vw;
}
```

Added the above code to media query to resolve the scaling issues as I could not use the same sized font for both views.
